A MINING EXPERT IS NOW IN THE FIELD.

And His Report Will Mean Much to the Future of the District.

Work at all the Mines is Being Pushed Briskly and the Output is Large.

Mr. Edward W. Smith, of Owensboro, was in our town several days of late. He is here with Mr. Tausig in the interest of the mining field.

The Kentucky Fluor Spar company are running their mill every day, and still two months behind with their orders for ground fluor spar. They expect to put their mill on double shift, night and day, to try and catch up.

The Marion Mineral company are working all of their mines, both spar and zinc. They had a number of wagons hauling carbonate from their Miller mines last week, and they are piling up a good supply of fluor spar at Mexico.

The Glendale Mining Company is very much encouraged since the Commodore Mining company uncovered the largest lead and spar vein in the district. The Glendale people's property joins the Commodore Mining Company's property.

Mr. A. J. Bennett, of Tolo, was in town last week and brought some fine samples of lead and calc spar. Mr. Bennett has several hundred acres of mineral lands, on which he expects to organize a company and to open and operate his mines in the near future.

The Deer Creek Mining company pumped the water out of their Deer Creek mines for the purpose of having Mr. Tausig, a mineral expert of St. Louis, to examine the property. Mr. Tausig examined this property on Saturday, and was surprised to see the large vein of lead and zinc showing in their shaft.

The Ada-Florence is still sinking through lead. All miners acquainted with this vein have given it up that this is the richest mine in lead alone in Western Kentucky. In this mine the lead predominates over all other minerals, while there are other mines that have wider veins and are richer in zinc. The miners at the Ada-Florence took a week's holiday Christmas.

The pumping engine at the Columbia mines broke down last week and the company had to suspend operations on the lead and zinc veins for a week or ten days in getting it fixed. But their spar mines keep running as it is not connected with the lead and zinc.

Mr. L. A. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Miller, mineral capitalists of Louisville, were in Marion last Thursday. They decided to start new mines on the Pogue property, near the Columbia. These people intend to mine on the right principle, as they intend sinking their shaft from one to two hundred feet before drifting or stoping.

Our Carrsville correspondent sends the following: "Messrs. Schoolfield and Lantry of Covington, Ky., were here last week on a hunting and mine inspecting trip. Mr. Schoolfield is President of the Schoolfield-Spees Mining company, and he is very much elated over the prospect of his mines."

The Eagle Fluor Spar company's concentrating plant at the Cullen mines near Salem will be ready to go into operation about February 1st. The company expects to run from one to two hundred tons per day through their mill and their mines are opened up enough to mine this amount per day, to keep the mill running.

Mr. Tausig, the mineral expert of St. Louis, is in this district for the purpose of examining all the lead and zinc mines in this section, for his company, which is the largest zinc smelters in the world. If Mr. Tausig thinks favorably of this district his company will take hold of two or three of the leading companies in the district; will sink shafts four or five hundred feet deep, and will build mills that are suitable for the ores that are found in this district. When this is done it will be seen that this is the richest lead and zinc field in America. "But it takes money to make the mine go."

Our Levis correspondent says: "The several mines in this section, begin the new year with bright prospects and renewed activity. We look for greater development and larger output this year than ever before. Most of the land here is already sold or optioned."

IN THE FRANCES DISTRICT

A PRESS reporter spent several days in the above district last week and found everything in a flourishing condition. There are now ten or twelve shafts being operated on the great Tabb vein and several new shafts are being sunk.

At the great Pogue mine they are preparing for a big winter's run, and mine boss Arch Oliver is placing everything in tiptop shape for a big output. The engineer, George Russell, says the pump and other machinery is working splendidly. Work on a thirty-two foot breast of gravel spar will be commenced this week from a new level. The Miller crew was sent over to the Pogue Monday and a night shift will be put on, when it is expected to handle a 60 or 70 ton output of No. 1 spar every twenty-four hours. This mine is owned by the Marion Mineral Co., of which Fred Clement is the genial and hustling Superintendent.

The Asbridge, a short distance below the Pogue, is working every day and just now is probably putting out more spar than any mine in the district.

Both the old and new Yandell shafts are in operation and are getting out some good spar.

Just across the road from the new Yandell shaft, on the George Parish farm, a shaft is being sunk by Mr. Arch Oliver. It is now down about 80 feet and they are drifting in search of the vein, but thus far with only partial success.

The Wheatorft is getting out some very fine spar. We learn that this mine has developed a 9 foot vein of very rich gravel spar.

Last week some very fine and heavy new hoisting machinery was moved out to the Tabb mine, ready for installment. This is said to be the finest machinery in the district and will soon be in operation.

In fine this wonderful Tabb lead is a perfect bee hive of industry for several miles along its sinuous course. Thousands of tons of spar have been shipped from it, and yet from the standpoint of deep mining the surface has hardly been scratched.

The ore yards at Mexico have quite a large quantity of mineral awaiting shipment, the Pogue alone having several hundred tons of spar.

Mexico has recently been made a regular station, and the Mexicans are proud of the fact that they no longer have to flag the train to stop it. They are still grumbling, however, because the road will not give them a regular agent.

The Successful Prospector.

BY WILL S. LOWERY.

The successful prospector is the one who opens the leaves of nature's great handbook for himself and reads there the secret of the hidden wealth.

Although he may never meet with material reward in opening up the longed for mine, he will year after year be found returning to the haunts of the eternal hills to try his luck again.

POINTERS IN PROSPECTING.

The first thing to do in fissure vein hunting—and these veins do occur in Crittenden and Livingston county, in Southwestern Kentucky—is to select the hillside, usually with a ravine or stream at the bottom, and look for float; begin at the bottom and search upward; when a piece of float ore is found examine it, and if it proves valuable look farther up the hill for more of the same kind. Float, you will remember, is a broken fragment from a ledge. If the fragment has either spar, zinc or lead, or any other sort of ore, the lead will also contain ore of the same sort. The ledge is what you want as you wend your way up the hill. Examine every outcrop from whence your float could have been detached; sometimes it is well to go to the summit at once and to search downward, for the ledge is frequently at or near the top.

If your preliminary search proves to be in vain, and no outcrop is visible, then you know your lode is hidden and a longer, more patient plan must be carried out. The lead may be placed up and down the hillside, in which case the cropping may be exposed at the bottom, where the stream has washed away the earth; but if it lies lengthwise you must look for gulches which run up and down the hillside. Scratch the gulch for croppings; be careful when once you have found float, for if it belongs to the neighborhood a ledge must be there. Observe everything unusual in the formation of your hillside. A ravine up and down may be caused by a load which is softer than the general formation; or vice versa, a protuberance or ridge may have been caused by a lode which is more impervious than the country rock. Dig in either case and observe. The general formation or country rock will be easily detected. The first thing you see it as the contrary or different formation, which you must examine. Notice the natural shapes of the hill, or try to form a correct impression of how that hillside should look if all its foundation was the same, a uniform make up; there notice the exceptions, the gulches and ravines. These are necessarily formed by harder or softer water, then that which surrounds them, and in these places are the doorways to your mine.

One other very important point I wish to speak of to the prospector, and that is, it is well for a prospector before starting out to consider that a mine will pay.

Though small, if rich enough; though of low grade, if large enough. The exercise of a little judgement will enable him to determine the medium of the two extremes. He must leave a large margin in determining the relative limits in size a richness of his ore body.

Better far to be prejudiced against the probability of his undertaking proving valuable, if he desires to be on the safe side. He should not rely upon a simple test but consider that although a few assays will cost him a certain sum of money, it is nevertheless the value of his ore than to spend his time upon something it were better to let alone, or to leave something valuable and not know it to look for something better. Let him realize that if there is anything in his line of which he is ignorant and in doubt, in the matter of practical economic value, of certain classes of ores, there are hundreds of men who can and will enlighten him if he will but inquire.

The prospector should not confine himself to hunting any one kind of ore, out any kind of rock out of the ordinary, of which there appears to be less than a mountain, should be considered worthy of investigation, for the mine of the future will be one that has been overlooked simply because it is different from the usual run of things.

With best wishes to the prospectors, I remain,
Yours faithfully,
Wm. S. Lowery.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Have a Royal Good Time at their First Annual Banquet-Hearty Cheer and Speeches Galore.

Eloquence at a Premium and Good Fellowship Abounds.

The First Annual Banquet of the Crittenden County Commercial Club was given here last Saturday evening in the large furniture store of Nunn & Tucker, which had been cleared of stock and handsomely decorated and illuminated for the occasion.

Over 300 invitations were sent out and a large number of acceptances were received. There were present about 140 guests, and members, completely filling the large banquet hall.

The city was in gala attire, and strangers within her gates were given a hearty welcome; many of the guests had come from other points in this and the adjoining States. Prof Charles Evans, Principal of our city schools, presided as Toast Master. His ability for such a duty is well known throughout the State, and it is needless, perhaps, to say that on this occasion he was in his best humor. His introductory address was humorous and well suited to the persons responding to the toasts.

After invocation and prayer by Rev J. R. McAfee, pastor of the M. E. Church South, the elaborate menu which had been prepared under the direction of John Wilson, former proprietor of the Crittenden Springs Hotel, was proceeded with. Mayor J. W. Blue, Jr., delivered the address of welcome and it was one of his happiest efforts; he referred to the great progress this city and district has made during the past year, and prophesied continued and much greater activity during the coming year. He called attention to the fact that during the past year Marion had added many homes and business houses within its borders—approximately 100 buildings having been erected during 1904.

The mayor assured the visiting gentlemen of their hearty welcome to our city, and expressed a wish that many of them would find sufficient inducements to cause them to make investments with us which would return to them many fold.

"Our Commercial Interests" was responded to by Mr. C. H. Whitehouse, the resident director and Secretary-Treasurer of the Louisville-Marion Mining Company and Commodore Mining Company, both of which corporations have been recently promoted by Louisville capitalists. In introducing Mr Whitehouse the Toast Master referred to him as the "Father of the Commercial Club movement;" also saying that this city owed to him a debt of gratitude for putting on foot the movement which means so much for the future development for this city and mining district.

"Our Mining Interests," was ably discussed by Mr. C. S. Nunn of the firm of Blue & Nunn, owners of the bonanza mine of the district, the famous "Old Jim." Mr Nunn compared this district in a most favorable manner with the Birmingham, Ala., district, calling attention to the fact that we have near here coal in abundance and of extra fine quality, with lead and zinc ores in inexhaustible quantities, and vast deposits of fluor spar, the knowledge of which has surprised the iron and steel industries of the world because of its quality and quantity. He also alluded to our fine clays as being the best in the world, and one of our greatest commodities, many hundred of tons having been shipped from Marion during the past several years during the months when it could be transported to the railroad.

Mr A. H. Reed, who has a national reputation as a mining engineer, and who is the General Superintendent of the Kentucky Fluor Spar Company's properties, also responded to this toast in a very clever manner, and quoted extensively from a very interesting paper prepared by Mr. E. O. Ulrich, of the Federal Geological Survey. The tenor of Mr. Ulrich's essay was highly gratifying to all of the operators in the field who were present at the banquet.

Mr. Ross Givens, President of the Givens Mining Company, read an important paper from Prof. Owen, written in 1854, which predicted many wonderful things for the mineral products of the Western Kentucky District, many of which have been verified. Mr. Givens apparently could not resist the humorous strain inherent in his nature, but the purport of the paper was not entirely lost to his auditors by his side remarks and clever humor.

"Our Guests" was responded to by Ex-United States Senator Deboe, whose able talk was liberally applauded, and greatly enthused the entire audience. The visiting guests were made to feel entirely at home at our banquet board. His speech was one of his best delivered.

The response to same was made by Hon. L. C. Flournoy, of Morganfield, and, in one of his characteristic and witty addresses, he captured the audience. In the course of Mr. Flournoy's remarks he referred to Marion as being a favored city, having had so recently one U. S. Senator, with the prospect of another one; when he called the name of Ollie James, the assemblage heartily applauded.

"Transportation Facilities" was very ably handled by Col. D. C. Roberts, of Golconda, Ill., in an elaborate essay on river and railroad transportation. Col. Roberts evidenced his literary genius by making liberal quotations from literary works, both ancient and modern, but fully convinced his audience both of Marion's advantages and necessities in the way of a modern system of transportation facilities.

"Intelligent Prospecting and Development" was the subject of a very interesting essay by Capt. T. H. Haase, formerly of Wheeling, W. V., and who is the resident General Manager of the Eagle Fluor Spar Company's new plant at Salem, Ky. This company has recently constructed one of the

For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised me to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

HIS GREENBACKS.

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec 29.—White James Neil, a wholesale grocer, was going into the National Bank this afternoon a gust of wind blew his deposit book, containing a fat wad of bank notes, out of his pocket and scattered them for several blocks. Men and women joined in the chase for the greenbacks and most of the money was recovered, but the blow cost Mr Neil $420.

CUT THE TREE DOWN.

Petersburg, Ind., Dec. 31.—The day before Christmas the boy and girl pupils of Clarence Ashby, the teacher of the public school at Pekota Township, began to wonder whether or no he was going to treat them to candy and nuts, but none of the children had the audacity to ask. They decided to wait and see if he had deferred any probable gifts until the new year. Yesterday evening they realized that they were going to get no candy and nuts.

A counsel of war was held and one of the more courageous of the boys was delegated to ask the teacher if he was going to treat. He politely answered no.

Another council of war was held and the boys decided to break the ice over a pond and gave their teacher a ducking. They caught him and started him off to the pond. He got away from them and sought refuge by climbing the naked branches of a very large tree.

Procuring an axe the boys cut the tree down. Ashby fell with the tree and was badly injured about the back and legs.

After collecting his wits he gave the boys three dollars to divide among them.

A PERILOUS RIDE.

Cumberland, Md., Dec 29.—Wedged on an engine pilot, Joe Wood was carried 28 miles in a blinding storm last night. Both legs were broken and he was internally hurt. He died after being removed to the hospital at Martinsburg.

Wood was struck by a passenger train on the B. and O. road in Knoxville, while attempting to board a train going in the opposite direction. Several men saw the accident but the man's body could not be found. A telegraph message was sent ahead to look out, it being supposed that the man was on the engine, but he was not found until Martinsburg, 28 miles away, was reached. The man was a resident of Petersburg, Maryland.

CUT A WIDE SWATH.

Huntington, West Va., Dec. 29.—After a career of meteoric brilliancy, socially and otherwise, "Lieutenant" Frank T. Albright, U. S. A., was arrested here today, pursuant to an order of the Secretary of War, and taken to the barracks at Columbus, Ohio, to await court martial on the charge of impersonating an officer for the purpose of committing fraud.

Albright is a mystery. Where he came from is unknown. Directly after the close of the war in the Philippines he drifted into Parkersburg as a member of the recruiting force at that point and there passed himself off as a lieutenant, and was accepted in the most exclusive circles of the ultra fashionable. He established himself as an entertainer of no mean ability, and proving the good fellow in every sense of the word was taken into the most exclusive social club, composed of the young men of that city. Dinner parties, card parties, launch and driving parties followed fast upon each other and his invitations were eagerly sought.

During the last six months of his stay in Parkersburg he became a member of the County Club. At this stage there appeared on the scene a beautiful Southern girl, whose home is in Tennessee, and she won the heart of the lieutenant. When the leaves began to fall the girl of the Southland wearing upon her sleeve the heart of the gay army man, wended her way into the land of sunshine and flowers. Then came the crash. Checks marked "No funds," began to be placed in the hands of Constables for collection. Notes with signatures obtained under false pretenses began to turn up, but to all this Albright pleaded failure of money, long since due, to arrive.

Finally the back pay claimed by him from the Government came and many of his debts were settled. Then he went to Portsmouth, O.

Albright is charged with not only impersonating an officer, for fraudulent purposes, but with obtaining the endorsement of a prominent business man on a note for $100.

Tonic to the System.

For liver troubles and constipation there is nothing better than DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills. They do not weaken the stomach. Their action upon the system is mild, pleasant and harmless. Bob Moore, of Lafayette, Ind., says: "No use taking DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work. All other pills I have used gripe and make me sick in the stomach and never cured me. DeWitt's Little Early Risers proved to be the long sought relief. They are simply perfect." Persons traveling find Little Early Risers the most reliable remedy to carry with them. Sold by Woods & Orme.

WAR ON DIVORCE.

A dispatch from Rome states that Pope Pius counsels all Catholic journals to have a sympathetic attitude toward the new movement in the Anglican church to restrict the obtaining of divorces. His Holiness urges that the general effect of convincing mankind of the necessity of a law maintaining the indissolubility of the marriage tie would be greatly to promote the happiness of the human race.

Tale of a Martyr.

MISS SOPHRONIA JENNIE MODDIE
Studied hygiene twaddle
Till she got it in her noodle
That she couldn't live on food,
And she used to sit and ponder
On the happy Over Yonder.
Where the hosts angelic wander,
And on such things she would brood.

Nothing not by art digested
Miss Sophronia molested.
And she got herself infested
With the cerebellitis fad
Till the little wit crested
In her skull evaporated.
And her common sense was slated
To go slumping to the bad.

She ate hay and wheat and barley;
She chewed soap nuts small and gnarly;
With a steak she never would parley;
Nor with solid stuff like that.
But she stuck with grim persistence
To her prodigious existence.
And she fought with firm resistance
All temptation to get fat.

So in course of time she grew to Be a part of what she's chew to—
Ready Oats she ate at 2:30
And Aseptic Bran at 4;
At just 5 she'd eat her dinner
Of Dust Corn (that was a winner).
As she kept on growing thinner
She asphyxiated the more.

Well, this tale must have an ending,
And it is no use pretending
That the end we are intending
Is a triumph, for it ain't.
Miss Sophronia Jennie Moddie,
With her hygienic twaddle,
Through eternity will toddle
As a predigested saint.

A Vary Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. M. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." An Animal Story For Little Folks

Mary and Her Little Lamb

You have all heard of Mary, haven't you? I mean the Mary that had the little lamb. Of course you have, and I am going to tell you a story about her and her lamb that you have never heard before.

Well, once upon a time Mary thought that she would go into the fields and catch some of the beautiful butterflies that were flitting about from flower to flower. She had a net that her big brother had made for her, and with this she tried to capture the pretty creatures that sailed about in the air among the flowers.

But, mercy me, they were all so shy they never allowed her to get within reach of them.

"I do believe that bad lamb is frightening the butterflies away!" cried

RAN AWAY AS FAST AS HE COULD.

Mary, stamping her pretty little foot on the ground. "I shall just punish him severely for it."

But the lamb saw that she was angry and ran away as fast as he could, with Mary right at his heels.

You would never have thought that a little girl could run so fast, and it was unfortunate for her that she did, for suddenly the lamb came to a pool of water, and he stopped right still as suddenly as he could.

What happened to Mary? She went heels over head over the top of the lamb and plunged up to her waist in the pool of water.

Of course she got wet to the skin. "But it taught me a lesson," she said the next day. "I shouldn't have wanted to punish that dear little lamb of mine."

And she gave him a real tight hug and made up.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Bought Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and Sent it to a Friend.

Mr F W J Fletcher, a druggist in Victoria, Australia, says: "A customer of mine, was so pleased with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which she had used for her children when suffering from colds and croup, that during a fortnight's time she obtained at my shop, nine bottles, which she sent to her friends in different parts of the state, telling them how much good it had done and advising them to give it a trial." A FIGHTING SAILOR.

VICE ADMIRAL HEHATCHI TOGO, THE NELSON OF JAPAN.

Trained in England, He Displayed His Ability in the War With China, Spirit and Daring of the Japanese Tar in Torpedo Boat Warfare.

Hehatchi Togo, the fighting admiral of the mikado's navy, who planned and carried out the daring torpedo boat attack on the Russian fleet at Port Arthur which resulted so disastrously to Alexeieff's ships, comes of the fighting race of the samurai and has won a place in the front rank of intrepid naval commanders of the world.

Born on Oct. 14, 1857, young Togo was educated at the Japanese war college and at the Incorporated Thames Nautical Training college on board the British training ship Worcester. He also studied at the naval college at Greenwich and made a voyage in a British man-of-war. During his studies in England he showed great aptitude in naval matters and an ability which foreshadowed his future greatness. Although young, as flag officers go, Vice Admiral Togo, of all the available admirals in the Japanese navy, probably best knows what naval warfare under modern conditions means. Ten years ago, when the Japanese wiped out the Chinese fleet, Admiral Togo, then captain, struck the first blow of the war. He was in command of the second class cruiser Naniwa, a British built ship of 3,650 tons. This little ship saw more fighting than any other vessel in the Japanese navy, and Togo then won for himself his title, "the fighting admiral."

When the troops Kowshing refused to surrender, Togo warned the Europeans to leave her, then discharged a torpedo and opened fire with his guns. The torpedo hit the vessel, and she sank in half an hour.

Most of the damage to the Russian fleet at Port Arthur was inflicted by torpedo boats, war vessels which until now have not been in high favor with naval authorities, although the Japs made good use of them in the capture of Weihaiwei from the Chinese ten years ago.

Service on these torpedo boats is the most trying and dangerous work that falls to the lot of the sailor. Besides being poor sea boats, they are entirely unprotected by anything resembling armor, and their sides may be pierced by a rifle bullet.

When it is considered that in the recent assaults on the Russian ships at Port Arthur the sea and harbor were filled with floating ice, the perils of the undertaking can hardly be overestimated.

Vice Admiral Ito, who commanded at Weihaiwei, tells of a boat's crew that perished rather than admit its failure to duty to which it had been assigned. It was in February, and the cold was intense. In the midst of storm and darkness the crew set out on its errand, but never returned, and the men were found frozen in the boat.

When Ito's torpedo flotilla entered the harbor of Weihaiwei, on the night of Feb. 6, 1895, boat No. 9 deserted the flotilla and went on a search on her own account. She reached the Chinese ships unobserved and discharged a torpedo at the Ting Yuen, sinking her. She was pursued by gunboats and her engine room was riddled, four engineers being killed. The boat was helpless and the crew prepared to commit suicide rather than fall into the hands of the Chinese. Fortunately, they were rescued by another boat of their flotilla before the Chinese reached them. Such are the men who man the mikado's fleets.

THURSDAY, JAN. 5, 1905.

The PRESS extends the courtesies of the season to each of its thousands of readers, coupled with best wishes for the ensuing year.

If the daily papers will give us a rest in the matter of that Chadwick case, the people of this country will rise up and call them blessed.

Admiral Togo has sent Admiral Kamimura to meet the Russian fleet and has himself returned to Japan, where the old sea-dog is the hero of the hour.

In the factional fight among the Republicans of New York for a successor to Chauncey Depew in the U. S. Senate, Gov. Odell and his man Black have been knocked out by the Platt and Depew influence and Depew will succeed himself in the Senate.

The Louisville Evening Post has hauled down from its editorial masthead the line reading, "A Democratic Newspaper." This line has been a "flaunting lie," for many a long year, and it is well the Post has had the decency to finally "acknowledge the corn" and take its proper position in the ranks of Republican newspapers.

Senator Mitchell and Congress man Hermann have been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at Portland, Oregon, charged with feloniously conspiring with certain other parties to defraud the United States Government out of several parcels of valuable land, specified in the indictment. Both men are Republicans, and members of the recent Congress.

We venture to say that if Tom Cochran became a candidate for legislative honors, all other prospective or announced candidates for representative in this district had as well retire at once and avoid being run over. Tom is an old Smithland boy and has a host of friends here who would rally to his support, and is well and favorably known throughout the county.—Smithland Banner.

The dispatches state that the Republican Legislature of Colorado, by some trick of legerdemain, propose to re-seat Peabody as Governor of that State. In order to accomplish this it will only be necessary to throw out some 1800 precincts, in each of which Peabody's opponent had a majority. The absurdity of the proposed steal is too obvious for comment.

The fall of Port Arthur, which occurred Monday, has been anticipated for some days. The gallant fight made by Stoessel and his men furnishes a theme for universal praise, no less than the brilliant achievements of the Japanese. For dogged persistency in attack and stubbornness in defense, the siege of Port Arthur stands alone in history. It was purchased with rivers of blood and millions of treasure. And yet when the prize was gained it proved to be but a devastated ruin, manned by an army of skeletons.

Good Times

The Clever set has been royally entertained by several of its members during Christmas vacation. Marion society has always been in "bunches" and the "Clever Set" with such members as Misses Mildred Haynes, Inez Price, Gustava Haynes, Cora Melton, Mammie Hubbard, of this city, and Carrie Rice, of Lisman, Messrs. L. C. Haynes, Trice Bennett, Leslie Melton, Curtis Asher, of this city, John R. Hughes, Kelsey, J. Pierce Jones, Drakesboro, Ky., and James S. Kevil, now in Los Angeles, Cal., can well be pronounced the star of society, considering the charming and talented fair ones and the noble young manhood for which the Clever Set stands.

All members were home Christmas and special care was taken to make merry the time for Mr. Melton, just from Lexington, State College and Mr. Jones, who has not the pleasure of meeting with his friends hereafter.

Christmas dinner, consisting of all the delicacies of the season was served at the home of Miss Hubbard; lunches, with an all-around good time, makes memorable Monday and Thursday afternoons spent with Misses Price and and Gustava Haynes; and other good times pale at mentioning the reception given them at the home of Mr. H. A. Haynes on Wednesday evening.

These are but vases of their happy gatherings, and Marion's people wish them always just such never-ceasing pleasure with marked success through life.

Merit will win success if properly managed. "Weary Willie Walker," the big sensational comedy drama, now in its third season, furnishes the strongest evidence to prove the quotation true: for nothing but success has met this popular play since its first production.

LEFFLER—FLANARY.

Mr. Chas. Leffler, of Sandford, Fla., and Mrs. Ida Northern Flanary, of this place, were married last Saturday night at the Parsonage of the M. E. church of this place, Rev W. C. Hayes, pastor of the M. E. church officiating. The marriage was a very quiet affair, and only a very few intimate friends witnessed the happy event. Mr. Leffler is an old Smithland man, was born and raised here but has made his home in Florida for many years, having gone there when quite a young man. Since going to Florida he has prospered in the mercantile business and has amassed quite a fortune. He is a gentleman of the highest order, of polished manners, and pleasant manners and every one here loved and honored Charlie Leffler.

His bride is the daughter of Capt R. Y. Northern, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, and was the widow of the late E. C. Flanary of Marion, Ky. She is an accomplished, talented and dignified lady, and came of an old and honored line of ancestors, her mother being a Patterson daughter of one of the pioneer families of Smithland. Mr. and Mrs. Leffler will make their home in Sandford Fla.—Smithland Banner.

Comedy situations, as a rule are hard to write, but Owen Davis, author of the stirring dramatic success, "Weary Willie Walker," has plentifully supplied this play with humorous and laughable characters and lines.

R. H. Yates arrived in the city Sunday at noon from Kentucky and will spend the winter in the valley seeking better health. Mr. Yates is a well-to-do and prominent farmer of Crittenden county, Kentucky, and is an old friend of K. C. Walker, of this city. He became ill in the summer and his lungs were effected as a result of the illness. Having heard of the climate of the Grand Valley through friends, he decided to come here. Striking Grand Junction Sunday, when the mantle of snow covered everything and the winds were blowing cold his dreams of a land of almost eternal sunshine were somewhat shattered, but of course they will soon revive and materialize. Grand Junction has a standing order for snow at Christmas time in order to have an ideal Christmas which completes a year of ideal weather. Mr. Yates stopped over in Denver en route to visit old-time friends. He is very favorably impressed with Grand Junction.—Grand Junction (Col.) Sentinel.

A Card of Thanks

Dear Editor:—Allow me space in your valuable paper to express my deep gratitude to you and my many friends, who so readily and willingly stood by me in the piano contest. Though defeated, the votes cast for me were by no means cast in vain. I appreciate them all, and I feel that I owe a great deal of love and respect to the people of old Crittenden and they make me feel that I have friends in whom I can trust for help in time of need, but nevertheless, the friend whom neither time nor distance can estrange is a treasure of more value than all prizes offered. Though Miss Watkins friends seem to be more plentiful or valuable than mine, but I congratulate her on having run such a successful race and winning such a nice prize, that her future life may be crowned with just such successes. With malice toward none, with love for all, with firmness in the right, as God gave us to see the right, I close.

ADA LEE HUGHES.

Andrew Jackson Hill Dead.

Uncle "Andy" Hill, as he was affectionately called by a host of younger people, passed from life to eternity on the 29th of December, 1904, at the home of his son, E. R. Hill, in the Iron Hill section, where he had lived for the past 15 years since the death of his wife.

He was born on the farm on which Thos. M. Hill now lives in this county, near Chapel Hill. In fact, Chapel Hill church and cemetery are on the farm on which he was born, which was on the 29th of July, 1814. He had always lived in this county and many years at the farm where Green Jacobs now lives, on the Dycusburg road.

His wife was Miss Jane Emeline Phillips, but she preceded him to the grave in December 1886. They were the parents of three children, all of whom survive him: E. R. Hill, of Iron Hill, Mrs. Mary Ceina Fowler, wife of Wm. Fowler, the banker of this city, and E. C. Hill, of Weston. Mr. Hill also left 9 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren. His descendants are among the best citizens of the county. Mr. Hill was probably the oldest citizen of the county, with probably one exception and was always a high-toned honorable man.

He was buried at Chapel Hill, which is on the same farm on which he was born 91 years ago.

Pogue-Matthews.

At the Gill House in this city at high noon Wednesday, January 4th, 1905, the Rev. J. R. McAfee united H. T. Pogue and Miss Frances Matthews in the holy bonds of matrimony. The young couple live in the Frances vicinity and each belongs to a well known and highly respected family. They were accompanied by Miss Ella Crayne and J. L. Binkley.

A Busy Cupid.

The little God of Love had a very busy day in Mesa yesterday. He had, in fact, been busy for several moons past, and on Christmas day witnessed the harvest of his labors in the happy union of several Mesa couples.

PETERSON-PICKENS.

One of the largest gatherings ever assembled in Mesa on a wedding occasion was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Peterson last evening, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Miss LeVon Peterson to Mr. Otto L. Pickens. Over one hundred guests were in attendance, and the event passed off with all the brilliancy that attends the gathering together of youth and beauty and wit and intelligence.

The Rev. C. R. Hakes performed the ceremony, the ring service being used. The charming young bride was dressed in white silk, with veil, orange blossoms, bouquet of roses. The groom wore black. George Peterson and Miss Ruth Black stood up with the couple. Little Miss Grace Peterson, dressed in white, was ring bearer. Mrs. C. M. Phelps played the wedding march.

At the close of the ceremony the bride and groom received hearty congratulations from their numerous friends, and the commodious dining room was then thrown open, disclosing a banquet fit for kings to eat. While a portion of the guests were regaling themselves, music was furnished by Mrs. Phelps, Chas. Johnson and others.

Jed Peterson's band appeared on the scene and with Johnnie Davis as chief mourner lived up the nerves of the guests with strains of more or less musical sweetness.

The couple were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable presents.

Mr. Pickens is one of our bright young business men, who has a host of friends. He is a Kentuckian by birth and has resided in Mesa for a number of years, being at present head clerk in the Co-op store.

The bride is one of Mesa's most charming young ladies, known and loved by all. The young couple have the best wishes of everybody.—Mesa (Arizona) Free Press.

Mr. Pickens is a Crittenden county boy, every inch of him, and is connected with one of the oldest and most influential families in the county. A few years ago he went west to seek his fortune, and in Arizona secured at once a responsible and lucrative position, and is now recognized as one of the rising young business men of the territory.

Otto was one of the most popular boys in Marion, and numbers his friends here by the hundreds. The Press sends forth to him and his fair young western bride glad greetings, and trusts that all their future troubles may be little ones.

THE JAIL EMPTY.

For the first time in about twelve months the Crittenden county jail is minus an occupant, which speaks well for our community.

MILES ON GOOD ROADS.

The General's Views on the Improvement of Our Highways.

The most important speech made by General Miles recently was one on good roads. Among other things he said:

"I know of no one element of civilization in our country that has been more neglected than the improvement of our roads; yet this is the element that marks the line between barbarism and civilization in any country."

"During the past hundred years the people of this country have devoted more capital, industry and enterprise to the construction of great commercial railways than have the people of any other country."

"Our government has expended more than $40,000,000 for the improvement of our harbors and waterways. If such expenditures of the national treasure have been made in the past for the development of railroads and waterways is it not now most appropriate that the improvement of our roads should receive national attention and government aid?"

"Any measure that brings to the homes of the American people the daily news of the world, that gives the sovereign citizen the truth concerning the affairs of his own country, that affords him a knowledge of the conditions and necessities of his own people, enables him to discharge his duties of citizenship, benefits the entire country and gives strength and character to the nation."

"The wealth of the nation comes primarily from the ground. The factory and foundry utilize the products of the soil and mine. As agriculture is our principal industry, so the great mass of our rural people are our main dependence. Their patriotism, their public spirit, their welfare, must ever be the salvation and glory of our republic. Therefore every measure, whether by the national government, the state, county or municipal authorities, that can promote their welfare should be earnestly advocated."

Convict Camps in Porto Rico.

The government of Porto Rico is establishing convict camps at two important points, and several hundred prisoners who are now supported in idleness will be employed building much needed roads. The law was passed at the recent session of the legislative assembly at Porto Rico. The governor under the bill has made an allotment of $20,000 from trust funds at his disposal for the building of stockades, sheds and other necessary structures in the camps and for engineering, tools and other necessary expenditures.

THE MIGHTY TORPEDO.

Prodigious Destructive Power of Modern War Engine.

The Whitehead automobile fish torpedo, which the Japanese have used with such terrible effect against the czar's ships, is one of the most powerful engines of destruction employed in modern naval warfare.

The torpedo, or "baby," as it is called by the sailors, is shaped like a cigar and is from fourteen to eighteen feet long and from fourteen to eighteen inches in diameter at its thickest part, which is the head. It is made of steel or bronze and divided into several compartments. The explosive charge of gun cotton is placed in the foremost chamber, and protruding from the head is a rod of steel, the rear end of which is pointed and extends into the explosive. When the torpedo comes in contact with a solid body the rod is driven against a detonator, which explodes the charge.

Behind the first compartment is the air chamber, which supplies the motive power for the engines that propel the torpedo after it is launched. These engines revolve a shaft on the end of which are two screw propellers. These drive the torpedo at a speed of over twenty knots an hour.

The torpedo is launched from the bow, stern or side of a vessel, either from a submerged tube or from a tube on deck. It is blown out by compressed air or a small charge of powder.

Special precautions have to be taken to prevent the torpedo from damaging the warship from which it is expelled. The firing rod is so arranged that it cannot go back until a small collar with propeller fans on it has been revolved off. When the torpedo enters the water the fans begin to turn, and when the "baby" has run about thirty yards the collar is worked off. Even then the charge will not explode unless the blow to the rod is severe enough to shear off a little copper pin standing in the way.

LETTER FROM MISSOURI.

QUIN, Mo., Dec. 30.—Hello, Mr. Jenkins, and the many readers of the dear old Press.

I hope you are all o. k. and had a merry Christmas.

I thought some time ago that I could be there to share my part of the holidays with my many friends but I could not go so I am wishing you all the pleasure and happiness you could wish.

The 17th of next month I will be twenty-one years of age. I would like to receive letters from my young friends, and will try to answer all I get.

Mr. Jenkins I understand you are sending each one of your correspondents your photograph. I furnished the Press news about as long as any one person, so don't slight me because I have quit and am out here in this garden spot of the world.

Again wishing you all a happy new year, I remain,

Very sincerely,
Jno. E. Roberts.

IN A BOX CAR.

Altoona, Penn., Dec. 29.—After getting into a box car at Champaign, Ill., intending to go to the bedside of a dying daughter, living near here, James McDevitt fell asleep and when he awoke discovered that the car had been sealed and that he was in transit.

All efforts to disclose his condition by knocking on the sides of the car proved futile. He was finally discovered by car inspectors in the yards here. He had been in transit five days, his only subsistence being corn, which he had eaten from the cob. He suffered terribly from lack of food and water, and the intense cold.

When found he was in an unconscious condition, and he said after he had revived that he feared several times that he would become insane through the harrowing experience.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Lovesick Hippo

Near the mouth of a large river in Africa there lived a young Miss Hippopotamus. She was not very proud of her looks, and she always wrote her name without the hyphen.

But one day as she was taking a sun bath, with just her nose and flat back above water, there came by that way a very wise professor of natural history, who, seeing Miss Hippo at her bath, seemed full of delight and cried out: "What a beauty! What a beauty! I'd like to take her with me." Poor Miss Hippo was greatly excited and ducked her head at once, as any well-mannered young lady would do at such a time. When she came back to the surface again the professor had gone, but his words had turned Miss Hippo's head.

"He meant me, of course," she said to herself. "Then I must be handsome after all, and he did say that he would TOOK A STICK AND WROTE ON THE SAND, like to take me with him. How nice it would be to go off with that handsome man! And he called me a beauty!" Poor Miss Hippo began to be vain. She dressed herself in her very best gown, she put on her Easter bonnet, and, taking her parasol, she waded out on the sandy bank.

"He is not here, but he will come back," she sighed. "I will leave a message for him." So she took a stick and wrote on the sand: "Please, dear Mr. Man, come back. You can have me any time. I shall be here at this time tomorrow. Miss Hippopotamus." And this time she put in the hyphen.

But when she came back the next day the tide in the river had risen and washed out all her message. Each day she wrote, but each day the water washed out her writing.

The professor never came back, and the poor hippo grew thinner and thinner until her skirts got too big.

"I shall die for love of him," she said. And she did. Wasn't she foolish?—

When Wilton Spoke Up.

The wife of Wilton Lackaye, the actor, is ever anxious that her husband should be satisfied with her purchases. Consequently when she wished to buy a new hat just before leaving New York she humbled the protesting Wilton with her to the milliner's.

The milliner being engaged, an assistant showed Mrs. Lackaye some hats and quoted their prices. Then the milliner herself took the customer in charge, and a more minute inspection of her wares ensued, while Mr. Lackaye looked on as helplessly as any other man in the same circumstances.

Finally it came to a choice between two hats, and Mrs. Lackaye said:

"Let me see—what is the price of this one?"

"That is $35, madam," replied the milliner.

"Why, your assistant told me the price was $30," remarked Mrs. Lackaye, with some surprise.

"Well, some one was absent from rehearsal," explained Mr. Lackaye to his wife sotto voce.

A "Hunch" That Was Profitable.

One of H. C. Fahnstock's customers came into the broker's office during a phenomenal rise in cotton in a terrible hurry. Cotton was booming toward the high mark.

"See here, Fahnstock," said the man with the hurry on, "I'm not superstitious, but I want you to close out my line of cotton and put me short a few thousand bales. I've got a doctor tinkering at my nose, and this morning he kept pushing the cotton up higher and higher. He hurt so that it gave me a hunch that I couldn't stand for its going any higher."

Fahnstock protested, but the impetuous customer stuck to his point against all argument. Three days later the crash came, and Fahnstock's customer closed out his deal with such profitable results that the broker now insists the customer owes to the physician who gave him his "hunch" a bigger fee than any typhist ever before received.

Birdie's Eye Shade.

Jenny's canary was as yellow as gold. Every fluffy feather was the color of the sun, and Dick's disposition was as bright as the sunshine itself. Every morning after his bath Jenny opened the door of his cage, and out he would hop, first to her hand and then to her shoulder. He seemed so proud of himself there, and Jenny was so pleased with him. Jenny's little brother Phil was just getting over the measles, and you know how the light hurt his eyes. He thought it hurt his eyes like that surely it must hurt the bird's as well, and he believed it would be an excellent plan to have a shade for Dick's eyes too. When the little boy's sister came from school you may imagine her surprise to see her pet with a paper shade, all painted green, over his little round head. There he sat, like a little old gentleman, and he did not sing another song that day. He must have thought it was night under the shade that kept the light out. Do you not think that Phil should have known that birds love the light?—Exchange.

To the Bright Girls of the Country.

The expenses for one year at a leading Southern college will be paid for a bright, worthy girl of Crittenden county, Kentucky, who will secure for me one hundred and fifteen subscribers to my book, "Lee and Longstreet at High Tide." The college expenses include board, books, tuition, laundry and incidentals.

For the double purpose of giving the truth of our civil war history, and of extending a helping hand to the struggling ambitious girls of the country, I am pleased to place a year at college within reach of a girl of this county who desires an education enough to exert herself a little. Should the girl availing herself this opportunity prove particularly deserving, I pledge myself to the endeavor to open the way for her to complete the college course.

The girl who is interested in this offer should communicate with me at once, and her communication should be accompanied by the endorsement of her county School Commissioner, the editor of this paper and the teacher of the last school she attended.

I would be glad to communicate with every ambitious girl in the county who is struggling to educate herself.

THE BANQUET.

finest ore reduction plants in America. The Captain handled his subject in a concise and intelligent manner, and his discourse was highly appreciated.

"Concentration of Ores" was the subject of a very interesting and intelligent paper prepared and read by F. Julius Fohs, of this city. Mr. Fohs is a Marion boy who has attained an enviable reputation as a mining expert, and holds a most responsible position with the Marion Zinc Company, composed of Ft. Wayne capitalists. Mr. Fohs presented some new and original ideas as to mining in this district, many of which will be tested in a practical manner in the near future.

Mr. William H. Temme, an Indiana capitalist and mining expert, was next introduced, and made a brief but very effective impromptu address concerning the district, in which he has proven his faith by the heavy investments he has made here for his company composed of himself and northern capitalists. These purchases aggregate many thousands of acres in this county.

All in all the Banquet was a decided success, and much praise is due the manager; the festivities lasted until the "wee sma' hours" of the New Year's Day, and closed with a splendid peroration by the Toast Master.

Our Commercial Club has proven a great success during the very short period of its existence, and has become a potent factor in inaugurating new movements, as well as injecting new life and vigor into past hopes and efforts.

Among the important responses received from invited guests who were unable to be present the following are given to show the spirit in which our movement is viewed throughout the State.

From Gov. J. C. W. Beckham: "I am in receipt of your favor of the 21st, extending me an invitation from the Crittenden County Commercial Club to attend its first annual banquet, on the evening of Dec. 31st. I deeply appreciate the honor of this invitation and wish that it was in my power to accept. I regret, however, that my duties and other engagements for that time will make it impossible for me to do so. Please express to the officers and members of the Club my gratitude for the invitation and my best wishes for the success of this occasion and of the prosperity of the Club."

Col. A. Y. Ford, Managing Editor of the Courier-Journal: "Doubtless you saw the notice in the Courier-Journal a few days ago of the annual dinner to be given by the Crittenden County Commercial Club. I want to congratulate you on starting such a series of annual gatherings. Other clubs that have tried them have found them of great assistance in increasing enthusiasm for local undertakings."

"I am writing to the correspondent of the Courier-Journal at Marion to send us a report of the meeting."

If it were not a time when it is impossible for me to be absent from here, I should certainly give myself the pleasure of being with you.

With best wishes for the success of the Club and all its enterprises.

Telegram from J. C. Norwood, of the State Geological Survey:

"Much to my regret unforeseen circumstances here prevent leaving in time for the banquet. Please assure members and guests that my sympathies are in hearty accord with objects of the Club. The Survey will cooperate in all ways possible to promote developments of your great mineral district, in the merits of which I have long had entire confidence. The Survey will take up detailed work in district next spring, both geological and mapping, and hopes to have co-operation of the Club in carrying it to completion. With best wishes to the Club and guests, and hoping I may be present at next celebration."

The hearty thanks of the Club is due and hereby extended to the many firms and individuals who kindly rendered aid to the Club in giving its first banquet; Messrs. Gilbert & Hicklin and C. J. Black & Son furnished dishes; Cochran & Pickens and Mrs. L. A. Weldon furnished stoves; A. J. Chittenden furnished tables, etc., and Nunn & Tucker the use of their building, and rendered valuable services in conducting the banquet; the Electric Light company illuminated the building specially for the occasion.

In managing of the banquet the Entertainment Committee has scored a pronounced success. Mr. H. H. Sayre is Chairman of this committee, and its membership is composed of John W. Wilson, W. D. Baird, Dr. F. W. Nunn, Ross Givens, Dr. R. J. Morris, R. F. Haynes, Charles J. Haury.

The banquet will undoubtedly give great impetus to the progress of the Club, and it is hoped that its position toward our commercial interests, mining industries, etc., has been so clearly propounded that no friction or antagonism will be met with in the new improvements which the Club has set about to accomplish, as it has been clearly shown that our efforts will be in the interest of all and against the personal aims and endeavors of none who seek the general welfare of the community.

It is convenient to the life of Christ into periods for the purpose of study. Stalker's division into three periods—year of obscurity, year of popularity, and year of persecution—is simple, but hardly comprehensive enough. Biographical and geographically his life fall into ten periods. Below we give the first two periods:

I. Preparatory Period. This covers a space of about 15 months from Sept. B. C. 6 to Dec. 25, B. C. 5.

II. Period of infancy, childhood and private life, from his birth to his baptism. This covers a period of about 30 years, from Dec. 25, B. C. 5 to Jan. A. D. 27.

III. Period of early Judean ministry, extending from his baptism to his arrival in Galilee. This period covered about eleven months from Jan. A. D. 27 to Dec. A. D. 27.

Saturday, Dec. 31, Ministry of John Baptist, Matt. 3: 1-2; Mark 1: 1-8; Luke 3: 1-8; John 1: 6-8, 15-18.

Sunday, Jan. 1, Baptism of Christ, Matt. 3: 13-17; Mark 1: 9-11; Luke 3: 21-22.

her 51st year, and a daughter of A. Morgan. Her remains were laid to rest at Dycusburg.

She was converted under the preaching of Rev. J. T. Barbee in 1890. During her last illness kind and loving hands did all that could be done. That dreaded disease, consumption, caused her to waste away until death relieved her. But she gave her friends the blessed assurance that all was well, and died happy in the faith. Mother is taken away but bids her family and friends to meet her in the bright and great Resurrection morning.

We shall meet thee in the morning
When earth's night has passed away.
We shall greet thee at the dawning

When the Lord shall come in glory
With our loved ones gone before,
Then beyond life's finished story
We shall meet to part no more.

Big Fire at Kelsey.

Sunday morning about 2 o'clock the brick store rooms here were discovered to be on fire. The entire population was immediately aroused and water was carried from all the cisterns and wells by the large crowd which had gathered. It was a hard fight and for three hours it looked as though the business portion of the town would all be burned. One of the rooms burned belonged to J. W. Hughes, one to Mrs. S. H. Cassidy and the other one to George W. Bennett, who also owned all the stock of goods in the whole building, consisting of groceries, hardware, furniture and undertakers' goods of all kinds. His loss is about $1,000, with only $1,400 insurance. It is not known how the fire originated.

HAS FALLEN!

A Rain of Fire and Iron Makes Port Arthur Untenable.

London, Jan. 2.—Port Arthur has surrendered. Exhausted by months of almost continuous battle, decimated by disease and casualties, and hopelessly sealed in its rocky fortress, the gallant garrison has yielded to its gallant besiegers and the end is now written of the most dramatic war incident of modern times.

At 9 o'clock last night General Nogi, commanding the Japanese army of investment, received from the Russian General, Stoessel, a note saying that he found further resistance useless and asking for a meeting to arrange terms of capitulation. The Japanese General immediately named commissioners to confer with representatives of the Russian commander. They met at noon today to arrange the terms of surrender.

The nature of the terms agreed upon it is thought will be of the most magnanimous character; the Emperor of Japan himself, through the chief of the imperial staff has given public his expression that "General Stoessel has rendered commendable service to his country in the midst of difficulties," and that it is his wish that military honors be shown him.

A dispatch from Tokio quotes military opinion as believing that the entire garrison will be allowed to march out under arms and may be sent to Russia on parole. Late dispatches from Japan have shown that the gallant defense of Stoessel and his men has nowhere been given a finer appreciation than in the land of his foes, and it is more than likely that Japan will embrace the opportunity to show her magnanimity and admiration of the gallantry of Port Arthur's defenders by allowing them all the honors which war permits a victorious army to bestow on the vanquished.
